DISCIPLESHIP THOUGHT FROM WORDS

FOR WORSHIP. People gather around Jesus. They want to know in plain terms who he is. Jesus points to the importance of the emergence of a trusting relationship where followers increasingly learn to hear his voice, like sheep who have grown accustomed to the presence of their shepherd (John 10:26-27). Jesus is speaking about closeness and belonging. It's not enough to watch from a distance. This isn't about having the right ideas. This is about relationship. John's gospel especially reminds us that intimacy and relationship are at the heart of the Christian faith. Jesus is drawing us into a loving relationship, into the unity and closeness shared between the Father and the Son (v. 30). Human beings find themselves held within the very life and relatedness of God. Here there is safety. Here, there is a sense of belonging and connectedness that brings forth the kind of life that truly lasts the distance (vv. 28-29). This eternal life is bound up in finding ourselves at home in the circle of divine love, in knowing God and in being known.
